

Florida International University | Department Of Environmental Health & Safety | ehs@fiu.edu

June highlights National Safety Month and the start of hurricane season - a timely reminder that safety and preparedness go hand in hand. From reinforcing everyday safety practices in our work and learning areas to ensuring readiness for severe weather, June is an opportunity to pause, reflect, and take proactive steps. Preparedness today can make all the difference tomorrow. We encourage everyone to stay informed, review emergency procedures, and take simple actions that strengthen resilience across our campus. Together, we can build a culture where safety is second nature.

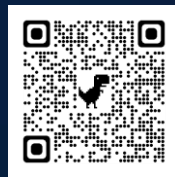

In this Month's Newsletter

- 💡 Heads up for June. Let's keep up the momentum for establishing proactive habits that keep every work and learning space safe.
- 🏆 Congratulations to the June's Safety Shout Out - Yoli Davalos from the Department of Chemistry. Nominate someone/a group for an EH&S' Safety Shout Out by visiting <https://ehs.fiu.edu>. Check out the past EH&S Safety Shout Outs here.
- 🎉 June is National Safety Month Join us to learn, connect, and contribute to a safer campus environment—while also enjoying opportunities to participate in interactive activities and win prizes. Stay up to date on National Safety Month events and activities by visiting the EH&S Announcements page.
- 🌀 Hurricane Season – Are You Ready? Check out the FIU Dept. of Emergency Management FAQs to take proactive measures and ensure you are ready this season.
- ★ General Safety Talk 101: It Starts with You June is National Safety Month. Let this month serve as a reminder that safety is everyone's responsibility. Every job, every task, and every shift should begin with one question: "Am I working safely?"

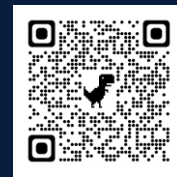

Scan The QR code with your phone!

Full June 2026 Newsletter

Send us an email

Report a Concern

